Who is KGT Employment?

KGT Employment is a Kimberley-based, not-for-profit organisation run by the community for the community.

We were established in 1997 with the goal to help people engage in the local economy through employment and training pathways.

KGT assists Indigenous and non-Indigenous people, people with disabilities and the long-term unemployed.

To date, KGT Employment has assisted more than 2,500 individuals progress toward their career.

From offices in Broome and Kununurra, our carefully selected team can service the entire Kimberley region. We currently have clients in each of the major towns in the region as well as many of the surrounding communities. This includes clients in communities from Bidyadanga, along the Dampier Peninsula, Kalumburu, the Tjurabalan region and many other places in between.

How can KGT Employment assist you?

Whether you need labour hire to meet short term employment needs to fill skills gaps or meet contractual requirements, or whether you need to develop a skilled workforce for the long term future of your business, KGT Employment has solutions to meet your needs.

KGT Employment specialises in developing candidates to meet the workforce needs of employers working in the Kimberley region. We work with employment service providers to identify suitable candidates for industry then work with those candidates to prepare them for a start in the industry. KGT Employment can then support the individual and the business through the early stages of employment, right through to the completion of an apprenticeship, depending on the needs of the employer. For short-term skills needs, KGT Employment can assist with locating suitable participants to meet your needs and manage their employment placement on behalf of your business on a labour hire basis.

If you are specifically after Indigenous employees to meet your contract or Reconciliation Action Plan targets, KGT is the largest employer of Indigenous apprentices and trainees in the Kimberley and can assist your business recruit, train and retain local Indigenous employees. This will not only help you meet your employment targets, but also will add value to your business in the long term as local people do not require accommodation and flights to be available to work.

Benefits for your business

KGT Employment bears all the responsibilities of the employer. We manage payroll, superannuation and taxation. We are also responsible for the workers compensation insurance for all of our employees, including the apprentices, trainees and labour hire participants we place in your business. KGT also takes care of all off-the-job training, including arranging for travel where necessary.

As an added bonus, KGT Employment is exempt from payroll tax and have limited exemptions from fringe benefits tax, so we pass on these savings to you and your business.

All you need to do is provide a safe workplace and the necessary training on the job. KGT Employment will even assist you in each of these areas by conducting regular workplace safety inspections on your behalf and monitoring training progress against training plans.

The whole community benefits

By engaging local employees, you are contributing to building better communities in the Kimberley region.

More skills development means greater engagement in the workforce, less dependence on welfare, fewer issues associated with poverty, and a better skilled pool of potential employees for businesses operating in the region. It also means more income being distributed in the community through local businesses which leads to further employment opportunities in the local region.
